SCHOOL CHILDREN PLAN BIG PROGRAM ON ROOSEVELT DAY

Piedmont Park To Witness Massed Throng of 100,000 Youths, With President Riding Through to Grant Field.

DATE OF SPEAKING TO BE NAMED SOON

Georgia Senators and Erle Cocke Will Call Upon President in Washington Early Next Week.

The school children of Georgia will give a special party for President Roosevelt when he comes to Atlanta for the Roosevelt Home-coming Celebration. The party will be in Piedmont park where there will be assembled at least 100,000 children from the schools of Atlanta and Fulton county and from other sections of the state.

Erle Cocke, general chairman of the celebration, said yesterday arrangements are being made for the President to drive through the park on his way to Grant field for his public address which will climax the home-coming ceremonies.

Mr. Cocke has turned the arrangements for the Piedmont park festival over to the schools and colleges committee, which is headed by Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the university system, and which has Dr. Jack Lance, of Young Harris College, in charge of college activities and Professor J. C. Thomas, superintendent of school of Cook county, in charge of elementary school activities.

Thomas in Charge.

Professor Thomas, who resides at Adel, is expected to be in charge of the Piedmont park affair in that most of the children to be massed in the park will be from the grade and high school of the state. The city board of education and the Fulton county school board already have adopted resolutions declaring Roosevelt Day a holiday for the children of Fulton county.

Senators Walter F. George and Richard B. Russell Jr., accompanied by Mr. Cocke, will go to Washington early next week to greet President.

Cobb Discovers Country's Big Need

By IRVING S. COBB.

LAND-OWNER, Cal., Oct. 15.—A lady writes in wishing to know what this country needs the most.

Well, dear madam, let's see:

Would it be more citizens who'll quit cursing the kind of government they get, for long enough to go to the polls, just once?

Or more patriots who'll quit waving Old Glory long enough to help smoke out some alien enemies hiding in the folds of the flag he hates?

Or fewer of those anti-Roosevelts who still go on the apparent assumption that when the President promised to give business a breathing spell, he meant sneezing spell?

Or fewer of those pro-Roosevelts who still think any honest criticism of the man in the White House is just the same as breaking the second commandment?

But, lady, since you're asking me, I say what this country needs most is a Mae West joke to end all Mae West jokes.

GRAND JURY MAPS REPORT ON PROBE

SAFETY PLEDGES SIGNED IN COURT

Judge John L. Cone Aids Constitution Campaign For Accident Reduction.

Plans for special presentations, expected to contain recommendations of retrenchment in county expenditures, were discussed yesterday by the county following conclusion of routine business during which 20 persons were indicted for lottery offenses.

Though Foreman Walter S. Pharr would make no statement as to when the presentations are to be made public, it was understood the recommendations will be revealed to the county commissioners Friday and that the commissioners will be called before the entire grand jury either Friday or Tuesday.

Intimation of the contents of the presentations came in a statement made Monday to the grand jury committee investigating the county board by Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, leader of the majority faction who pledged that the commission will henceforth conduct county affairs under a program of rigid economy and will attempt to wipe out the $25,000 deficit within the next three years.

The special probing committee, headed by H. G. King, chairman, will meet tomorrow afternoon for further study and for the final preparation of its report, which will be submitted formally to the grand jury Friday, it was understood. Investigation of the

Undertaker Is Held In Death of Bride

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jill doors slammed against William H. Reaguer, 50-year-old Culpeper, Va., undertaker, tonight after his coroner's jury ordered him held in the fatal slaying of Mrs. Willie Mae Wood, 21-year-old bride of three weeks.

A charge of murder rested against Reaguer after the jurymen ordered him held for the grand jury. He was not admitted to bail.

The decision was reached after the jury heard a bizarre story of a five-year romance that ended when police found Mrs. Wood in a Washington hotel early last Saturday, her throat slashed from ear to ear. By her side lay Reaguer, his wrists and arms hacked.

TWO PEDESTRIANS STRUCK BY AUTOS; WOMAN IS KILLED

CITY SEWER WORK FAILS UNDER PWA; WPA OFFICIALS SAY

Miss Annie Laura Brown, of Douglasville, Dies; Condition of J. A. Miles Is Said To Be Critical.

Two pedestrians were injured in almost identical accidents last night in downtown Atlanta. The death of one brought the toll of fatal accidents in the city limits to 38 for the year.

Miss Annie Laura Brown, 25, of Douglasville, Ga., died 45 minutes after being admitted to Crawford Long hospital. She suffered a skull fracture and compound fractures of the left leg below the knee.

J. A. Miles, 65, of 1405 Westwood avenue, was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital at 6 o'clock, just 15 minutes after Miss Brown was struck, suffering identical injuries. His condition was pronounced critical.

Miss Brown is the 38th person to die in Atlanta traffic this year and the fifth fatality of the month. Glenn Chapman, 21, of Decatur, Ga., was rushed to death within two and one-half times on Memorial drive October 6, was the last.

Miss Brown was crossing West Peachtree street, near Baltimore place, when struck. The driver, according to police, was Jack Thompson, 17, of Clinton, Ga. He was released under $500 bond. He was charged with reckless driving. Police reported they were informed by witnesses that the youth was not exceeding the speed limit.

Miles was crossing through a line of traffic in front of 410 Marietta street, just as he had done when struck, police reported, when struck by a machine driven by Lillian B. Hopkins, of Glen Ridge, N. J. Hopkins was released under $500 bond. He also was charged with reckless driving.

When the dedication of the $4,599,000 fund was made, it was announced that the work would be done by WPA, and the city has authorized the issuance of $1,000,000 in city bonds, authorized as Atlanta's share of the sewer costs, be deferred, or if carried through, the bonds will be held and not sold, and that a direct appeal be taken to President Roosevelt.

SEVEN HOLDUP VICTIMS NAME MAN AS ROBBER

Sole Clue, Hat Dropped in Fight, Leads to Two Arrests.

Weeks of painstaking effort by Atlanta detectives, during which time their only tangible clue was an initialed hat, were climaxed last night when the victims of seven holdups netting more than $450 identified two negroes in a police lineup.

One of the pair, Frank Lloyd, 26, was named in each instance. The other, John Downing, 21, was identified by two victims including A. C. Goodyear, delicatessen proprietor, who resisted a holdup, was fired at three times and grappled with Lloyd, who fled without his hat.

Detectives who broke the case were Lieutenant E. S. McCrary, M. M. Coppenier, J. W. Cody and P. H. Jones.

Chronologically the chain of holdups was as follows:

August 31—Grocery store at 803 West Hunter street, loot $90, Lloyd identified by L. Proger.

September 17—Drugstore at 260 Boulevard, N. E., loot $20, Lloyd identified by T. M. Field, a clerk.

September 17—Drugstore at 845 West Peachtree street, loot $95, Lloyd identified by Thomas D. Chotis.

September 21—Grocery store at 829 Simpson street, loot unestimated, Lloyd identified by H. Landers.

September 21—Grocery store at Highland avenue and Glen Iris drive, loot $200, Lloyd identified by Louis Tepas.

October 6—Delicatessen at 445 Parkway drive, N. E., no loot, Lloyd and Downing identified by Goodyear.

October 11—Grocery store at Hunt street and Linden avenue, S. W., loot $15 and merchandise, both identified by A. Diamond.

coast between Alexandria and Port Said, at the north end of the Suez canal, in an area which naval experts said would be Italy's first objective in event of closing of the canal.

Return Expected Friday.

It was believed the men-of-war would probably return to Egypt on the fact that previous smaller weekly maneuvers had always ended that day.

(Foreign military quarters in London expressed the belief today that the fleet will be kept indefinitely in the vicinity of Suez and Gibralter, following unexplained cancellation of the cruise to Greek waters.)

The British government has declined to respond to suggestions in the French press that the fleet be withdrawn from the Mediterranean and similar requests from Italy. London observers said there was no reason why almost the whole fleet should not remain in the Mediterranean as long as Europe is quiet.

London reports said the fleet, after the Mediterranean into the Red sea and others from the home fleet are going to the Mediterranean. A speech by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, was interpreted as meaning the grand fleet will not be moved out of the Mediterranean for a long time.)

Sanctions Assailed.

The Egyptian press vigorously attacked the League of Nations' sanctions program as well as the premier. Siyuan, an independent paper, declared:

"Egypt, conscious of the dignity of the country, considers the present government which surrendered its affairs and those of the country to the British as the greatest catastrophe which has overtaken Egypt since the Great War."

British friendship will not refuse Britain's friendship or an alliance with it, but they refuse to be in the situation of a state needing to be defended by Britain and refuse to admit that Britain speaks in their name."

The paper said Egyptians "refuse to participate in sanctions" with Great Britain without knowing at least what will be Egypt's fate in the future.

Fisher in Power.

With the Egyptian parliament and constitution suspended, Admiral Fisher became what was tantamount to a virtual dictator in Egypt's destinies in the present crisis.

Well-informed quarters said he has full rein in arranging defense measures, and the civil authorities are paying the most deference to his admiral recommendation.

Egyptians had been pleased by obtaining the right to increase their army, but the question of co-operation with Britain is now further complicated by the sanctions.

The maneuvering brought a spell of dunes in the desert of the Suez Canal, which had been reaping a rich harvest from the estimated 25,000 bluejackets. Only about 53 war vessels remained in the harbor today, with about 30 believed participating in the maneuvers. Most of the large vessels which had been jammed into the harbor left during the night and morning.

Where Italian Planes Wrought Latest Destruction

Italian scout planes Tuesday wheeled low over Harar (frightening its population into flight to Diredawa and to the safety of the surrounding hills) and were seen over Gota, on the railroad between Awash and Dire-dawa. Swift bombers of the invading forces meanwhile loosed a shower of aerial projectiles into Gerogubi, into the midst of Ethiopian troops at Makale, and into the tiny village of Aliji, near by. Meanwhile, Il Duce's army forged westward from Italian Somaliland, along the Webbi Shabili, while a cordon of Selassie's fiercest warriors was drawn to the interior to encircle Addis Ababa, the capital, in a new defense line.

was at work, another group met to press the placing of financial sanctions against Italy approved yesterday by the League as a whole.

Statistics were presented the economic body to show that Germany and the United States export more to Italy by a wide margin than any other country.

The preliminary decision upon an embargo of key products follows the proposal of Premier Laval, of France, that an economic boycott should begin with the cutting off from Italy of raw materials essential for the manufacture of munitions.

The principal speakers on yesterday's program at the convention were Kilroy P. Aldrich, chief inspector of the Postoffice Department and Harrison Parkman, purchasing agent for the department, both of whom are from Washington.

Aldrich praised the work of Second Assistant Postmaster-General Harilee Branch, an Atlantan, who will be a speaker at this morning's session of the convention.

Branch, according to Aldrich, has won admiration for his personal qualities as well as his professional attainments.

Effect of Boycott.

The British give more importance to the deterrent effect upon Italy of a policy of "buy nothing from Italy," or a policy of destroying Italy's exports.

"Today's action is merely a curtain raiser," said Anthony Eden, Britain's minister for League affairs, as he emerged from the meeting.

The interdiction of imports from Italy will be taken up tomorrow.

It was agreed that the League, after a anxious over the attitude of non-member states, officials expressed belief that eventually inquiries would be sent to the United States and Germany as to whether key products barred today can reach Italy from those countries.

An official committee said the discussion of non-member states showed the general opinion was that the most efficacious measures should be taken "to halt as soon as possible the hostilities in Ethiopia, or, in other words, to put the aggressor as soon as possible into a position where he cannot pursue his adventure."

Senate of Appeals.

Some delegations asked whether it would be advisable to prevent the exportation to Italy of such things as automobiles and other manufactured articles. This question was sent to military experts for an advisory opinion.

Turkey and Canada were among states which were pressed for an early examination of the possibility of severing all exports from Italy.

Sanction activities centered also upon the possibility of minimizing the losses of certain states resulting from an application of sanctions by the establishment of some form of mutual support. It is not proposed, however, to give cash compensation for trade losses.

The command of General Juan Zerucho for the Santa Ana area to seek the raiders. It was at Santa Ana that the mayor and chief of police were killed yesterday, and the bodies of three other men left by the roadside.

American Believed Safe.

In New York, Arthur D. Norcross, greeting card publisher, said he felt safe in his home in the Bronx, where he and his wife were staying.

"They were released and sent on in the Sierra Madre mountains to continue their trip," said Norcross.

He arrived by airplane from a hunting trip in the same mountains.

Norcross said the party included Joseph H. Durel, vice president of the National City Bank, New York; James Bruce, vice president of the National Dairy Products Company, New York; Lee Pauli, Wheeling, W. Va.; W. F. Fulton, Wheeling; and S. G. Durrell, San Francisco representative of the Chase National Bank.

A signed statement, made by Dr. Robert William Hockman, of Wheaton, Ill., said the soldier had lost his leg because he had been without treatment for nine days after he was shot; he was accompanied by a photograph of a badly lacerated wound.

(It was assumed he referred to a wounded Ethiopian soldier, as Dr. Hockman is serving as a surgeon to the Ethiopian forces.)

Bombs Brought In.

Three Italian air bombs were brought here by messengers from Korshai, near Walwal. Each weighed about one pound and was shaped like a tin can.

Reports from Diredawa said an air bombing was feared there after several Italian planes flew over the city, which is midway on the railroad from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, French Somaliland. A successful bombing could sever the only route by which foreign might leave the country toward the sea.

British and French consuls warned all white residents of Harar to leave the city. Americans and other foreigners, including a dozen American correspondents and cameramen, took refuge on a hill outside Harar.

Observers, however, expected Italians would not bomb Diredawa or the railroad because of appeals of foreign nations against such action.

Graziani Moves In.

Meanwhile, hordes of Ethiopian soldiers moved rapidly toward the southern front, into Italian Somaliland, as General Rudolfo Graziani and his Italian army advanced from that area.

At present it has not been decided at what time the honor will be given.

The late date is said to be desired by leaders of the celebration in order that many of the thousands who come to Atlanta from over the state may remain over until Saturday and attend the annual football game between the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

Chairman Cocke and Professor Thomas had a long conference yesterday on the Piedmont park program.

Mr. Cocke said the celebration officials were proceeding with the plan and it would be carried out unless the President requests cancellation.

Professor Thomas said he had no idea how many school children would be here from over the state but added he expected them by "tens of thousands."

There is no telling how many children will be here," Professor Thomas said. "We know every child in Georgia will want to come and we hope it will be so. They never will have an opportunity to see anyone who has done as much for humanity as President Roosevelt."

The Atlanta citizens committee, appointed by Major Key and headed by Major Trammell Scott as chairman, held its first meeting last night with Chairman Cocke at the Roosevelt headquarters in the 101 Building.

Details of the work to be carried out by the group comprising the committee were discussed and Major Scott will announce assignments of various activities later.

TEACHERS ARE LAUDED FOR TRAFFIC TOLL CUT

Official Says Biggest Reduction Is Among School Children.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(P)—J. J. Cavanagh, general manager of the Chicago traffic patrols, credited school teachers with the major reduction in the motor accident rate among school children far below that of any other age group.

The safety patrols' work supplies the "one bright spot" in the otherwise gloomy picture of growing highway tragedies, Cavanagh said in a statement, adding, "some criticism of the patrol system."

"In the 12 years from 1922 to 1934, the annual automobile death toll increased from 14,000 to 36,100 persons," he said.

"Throughout the United States boys and girls from 5 to 12 have shown a better accident record than any other age group, succeeding in bringing down their death rate 25 percent in 12 years. Almost as remarkable is the record of the group from 10 to 14 years of age which showed only a 3 per cent increase."

"The credit for this remarkable achievement is owing directly to the teachers who have ingeniously instructed the children in ways to avoid automobile accidents and to the protection afforded by the school safety patrols."

JAP MILITARY MAN FOUND DEAD ON SHIP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—(UPI)—Mysterious death of a Japanese military engineer, found choked to death with a strap in a stateroom of the palatial Japanese liner Taiyo Maru in Los Angeles, was investigated by police tonight.

Police said the death appeared to be a suicide, but an investigation was ordered.

WE DRIVERS

A Series of Brief Discussions on Driving, Dedicated to the Safety, Comfort and Pleasure of the Motoring Public. Prepared by General Motors

No. 7—SLIPPERY WEATHER

ICE AND SNOW always bring problems for drivers. These problems are the result of less friction. And that is interesting, because usually we are trying to reduce friction.

But we can do all we can. We use ball and roller bearings to overcome friction. We smooth and polish parts to reduce friction. We put oil in our cars to avoid friction. But we can't get along without friction, just the same.

For after all, we couldn't start a car, we couldn't turn a corner, if it weren't for friction. The friction between the road and our rubber tires is what gives us traction.

Most of the time we have plenty of traction. But in certain climates every year, winter comes blowing and blustering down from the North, and the first thing we know he has spread ice and snow over our roads, and our whole traction condition is changed.

But automobiles are pretty well prepared these days to meet any conditions. All we have to do is adjust ourselves to these changed circumstances.

For instance, many skillful drivers start their cars in high gear on very slippery, icy streets. Ordinarily this would be a bad thing to do. But when our tires have to start us going on slippery ice or snow, starting in second or "high" is harmless and it does help to avoid spinning wheels, side slipping and difficulty in getting under way. If you haven't tried this after stopping at intersections, you may be surprised to find out how much more quickly you get started again. Only remember to engage the clutch very slowly.

This business of starting in slippery weather can be quite a problem. But stopping is even more so. However, most good drivers agree on one method that they find quite satisfactory. First of all they begin to slow their cars down at quite a distance. Then they want to stop, so they press the brakes lightly at first and release it once. Then they press again and release quickly. By a series of brief, moderate brake actions, instead of one continuous pressure, they gradually reduce speed and can usually stop without skidding.

Many of the best drivers always make it a point not to disengage the clutch as soon as they apply their brakes, but to wait until the car has almost stopped. While this is their general practice, they say it is especially important on slippery roads, as they claim it reduces the chances of skidding. But if we use this method there is one thing we must look out for. We have to remember that on a slippery surface it is very easy to stall our engine by using our brakes when the clutch is still engaged.

Outside of starting and stopping, most winter driving is at turns and curves. Many good drivers tell us that they treat every slippery curve or turn as though it were going to be a stop. In other words, they approach curves using the very same system of short, moderate brake actions. The result is that when they reach the curve they are going so slowly that they can actually give the engine a little gas and put some power in the wheels. With power turning the wheels, we are not so likely to skid.

After all, the main thing to do about driving in slippery weather is just what we do about walking in slippery weather. We are all pretty careful about that. The first thing most of us do when we go out on a slippery morning is to walk out of foot cautiously and get the feel of the surface to see how careful we have to be. The best drivers we know do practically the same thing with their cars. The first thing they do after they get started, is to test the surface. They make sure that there are no cars too near, and then they gently apply the brakes. If they don't skid they resume speed and apply the brakes again—this time a little more firmly. In this way they determine the surface and know the degree of caution they must exercise to be safe. This seems like a very sensible idea.

Aroused Public Opinion Is Urged As Means of Curbing Auto Deaths

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(P)—Only a thoroughly aroused public opinion can exile death from America's highways, Lyndon L. Noyes, president of the Indiana Daily Press Association, told the organization today.

Noyes, publisher of the Ironwood (Mich.) Globe, called on the newspapers of the country to lead the way in a "relentless campaign" to "check the frightful toll" of mortality and injuries in automobile accidents until there is some semblance of safety in motoring.

In "this war and in other ways" he declared, the press can drive home the need for every motorist to observe the ordinary rules of the road.

told here today as representatives of the street and highway traffic divisions met.

The pedestrian is involved in 65 percent of all motor fatalities within cities, said Howard F. Igner, chairman and engineer of the Milwaukee Safety Commission, and is "the forgotten man." Heretofore newspapers have had a tendency to omit gruesome details, he said. "Train wrecks, automobile accidents, fires, explosions and the like are accompanied by suffering and horrors that are terrible to see. Reporters have omitted details to spare readers."

But "realistic journalism," he added, might enable drivers and pedestrians to realize and fear "rather than count the dangers that beset those who ride and walk."

The construction of rural walks and footpaths along rural highways were suggested by E. B. Lefferts, manager of the public safety department of the Southern California Automobile Club as an aid to the auto-harried pedestrian. He said an average of 2,300 persons were killed annually while walking along highways.

Pedestrians killed at street intersections and those meeting death while walking along rural highways led the list of fatalities accounted for during the last year.

Adoption of adequate traffic regulations to aid both motorist and pedestrian was urged by Igner, who said criminal recklessness would then be the only reason for violation of traffic ordinances.

The first New York subway opened October 27, 1904, with 62 miles of track.

ANTI-NEW DEAL DRIVE BEGUN BY REPUBLICANS

Western Headquarters for Party Are Established in Chicago Hotel.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(P)—Republicans opened their drive to rout the New Deal in the west today as party leaders gathered to map their strategy.

Western headquarters of the national committee and the grass roots organization formed by G. O. P. corn belters were established in a Loop hotel by Harold E. Spangler, national vice-chairman for Iowa, who will direct activities between the Alleghenies and the Pacific.

He immediately went into conference with Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the national committee; George F. Getz, national treasurer; and Silas Straw, financier, who helped to found the republican citizens organization, which is raising a war chest for the party.

Great interest centered in the current visit of Herbert Hoover, but the former President asserted he planned no political parades in Chicago. Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, director of the women's division of the national committee, launched the fight on another front in an address before the Women's National Republican Club, of Chicago.

The chieftains' first problem was the financing of a program to carry through the elections a year hence. Spangler asserted the "common people" had rallied to the cause and were still in the ranks, with $100,000 in subscriptions of $1 to $10.

He accused the administration of spending "millions" of the people's money to advertise itself through high-priced publicity experts, who hand out propaganda to conceal the true state of the prime issue. He stated:

"Mr. Fairley is welcome to his As-tors. We do not desire the support of the monopolies. They are among us."

Spangler indicated his sympathy with Senator Borah's recent demand that republicans make "trust busting" the prime issue. He stated:

"There are many real Americans there," he said, "who are dissatisfied with the way things are going."

AUTO LAW VIOLATORS SIGN SAFETY PLEDGES

mechanical inspection of all cars at least twice a year, is the only thing that will really reduce the death toll from traffic in this state.

Such a law was introduced in the state legislature at the last session but failed to pass.

Undoubtedly a law of nature is the only final solution to the traffic problem, but until Georgia gets such a law it behoves all motorists to do their best to make driving in this state reasonably safe under conditions as they exist today.

100,000 Signers.

It is to meet present conditions that the Safety Council of the Constitution launched its present campaign and, with practically 30,000 persons already signed to the pledge with its seven simple rules, it is inevitable that the hazards of motoring in this state will be reduced.

In "this war and in other ways" he declared, the press can drive home the need for every motorist to observe the ordinary rules of the road.

"It is worse than war," he said in pointing out that at present rates of automobile deaths, a number equal to the entire population of Indianapolis, Indiana, or St. Paul, is wiped out each decade.

He termed "fully justified" the account a New York newspaper (the World-Telegram) recently gave of an before-dawn motor accident in which a woman was killed and a young woman critically injured. The paper vividly described the mangled appearance of the victims and said the young woman looked "as though some had hit her in the face with a sledge-hammer."

In "this war and in other ways" he declared, the press can drive home the need for every motorist to observe the ordinary rules of the road.

"Conditions here are better than we have seen anywhere from Mississippi to the Gulf and from the Atlantic to the Mississippi. Only one section equals the four states of which Atlanta is regional headquarters and that possibly is Ohio. But conditions here are just as good as they are in Ohio."

Sent Out by Roosevelt.

Grimm was sent on his tour of the east by orders from President Roosevelt to Secretary Morgenstern. The purpose of the tour is to find out what the government has accomplished under the New Deal and what is needed for further development of business.

His conference with heads of government agencies here lasted all day and full reports were given by representatives of the FWA, the HOLC, the PWA, the WPA, the RFC and other financial bureaus and departments.

It was brought out in the conference that HOLC applications which once totalled 1,200 a day in this area have now sunk to a maximum of 50 a day. Persons on relief in Georgia have decreased from a peak of 136,000 to less than 40,000.

Conditions Here Better.

Costa Rica, about the size of West Virginia, has the richest health of any state in the western hemisphere.

It is known that the city of Atlanta is regional headquarters and that possibly is Ohio. But conditions here are just as good as they are in Ohio."

MATTHEW WOLL QUITTS CIVIC FEDERATION POST

Labor Official's Resignation Enlivens Session of A. F. of L. Meeting.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 15. (AP)—Liberals and conservatives within the American Federation of Labor warmed up today for their showdown fight on industrial unionism with a session of the national convention of Matthew Woll, a federation vice president, from the acting presidency of the anti-radical national civic federation.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and leader of the liberal wing, opened the federation convention's morning session by presenting his case to Mr. A. F. of L. officers from holding office in the National Civic Federation, an industrial relations forum.

Although Lewis mentioned no names, a hush fell over the hall. Woll, generally one of the federation's leading spokesmen, has been acting president of the civic federation for several years. After Arthur Wharton, president of the machinists' union, had withdrawn an objection to the belated introduction of a resolution (he said he wanted to know what it contained), William Green, A. F. of L. president, referred it to the resolutions committee headed by Woll.

Lewis, questioned by reporters, declined to comment on the resolution. He refused to say it was aimed at

Within a few hours, however, Woll told reporters he would resign from the civic federation whether or not the convention approved Lewis' resolution. If there were any sentiment within the A. F. of L. that would be joined in, he implied, he would "have only labor to serve," he concluded.

When the afternoon session started Woll took the speakers stand and read his resignation from the civic federation, sent by telegram to Ralph M. Eastley, chairman of the executive committee. He read this by telling the convention he had tried to resign from the civic federation for the last two years, but that with each attempt he was prevailed upon to remain a while longer.

Lewis' sole comment on Woll's resignation was that he was sorry Woll resigned under fire.

BEAUTY CONSULTANT STATIONED AT LANE'S

Miss Ruth Peterson, consultant from the Primrose House salon in New York, will be at the Lane Drug store, Henry Grady hotel, Saturday, where she will be glad to give helpful advice on the proper selection of cosmetics and beauty aids.

"At this time of the year," says Miss Peterson, "women must be especially careful of the treatment accorded their skin. The summer playdays have taken their toll on the beauty of both skin and hair and wise indeed is the woman who recognizes this fact and begins immediately to repair the ravages of wind and sun." Miss Peterson has received special scientific training in the subjects she represents and will be glad to give to Lane customers, without charge, the benefit of her mature advice on the selection of cosmetics and toiletries especially suited to their type.

BORAH AGAIN TALKED AS G. O. P. CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. (AP)—Fresh talk of Borah for president on the republican ticket mingled today with word of plans for an endeavor to spur a third party movement.

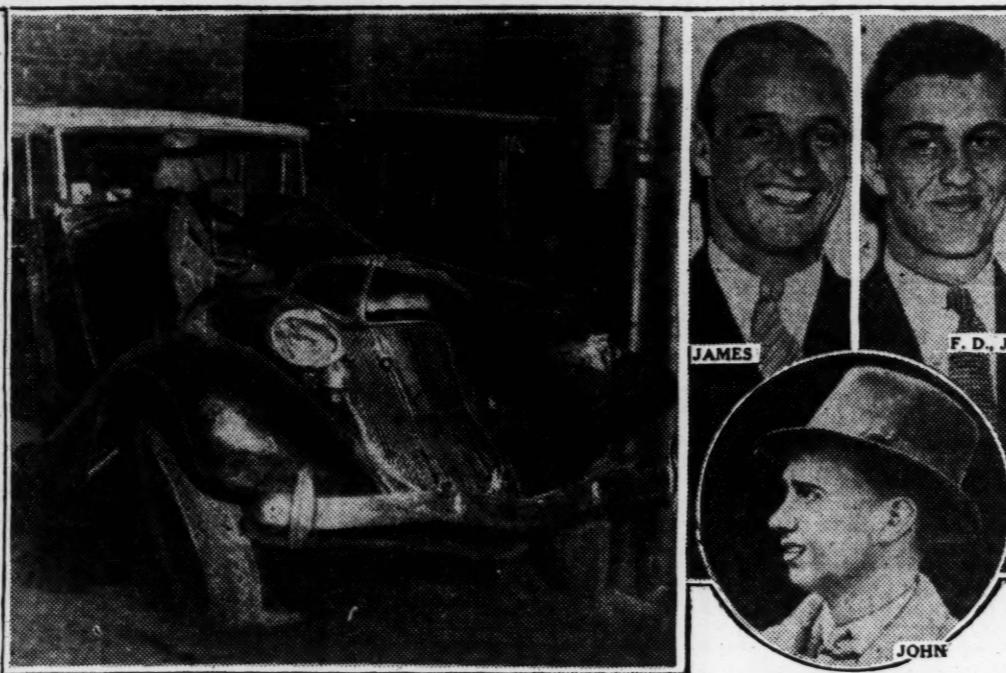

Senator Frazier, republican, North Dakota, said that the veteran Idaho republican senator could be elected president if nominated by his party. Regarding the nomination, however, he added:

"But it is doubtful because I assume the convention will be controlled about as usual."

Plans for a series of lectures advocating a new party were disclosed at the office of Representative Amie, progressive, Wisconsin, chairman of the commonwealth federation. He has arranged a series of talks in Minnesota and Wisconsin late this month, in the far west during November and at St. Louis and Kansas City in December.

WHITE WAY LIGHTS NEEDED

There will be universal gratification if the city government is able to increase its appropriation for lighting in 1936 to again make possible the illumination of the complete white way system.

There are 2,008 lights in the system but these were reduced to 780 a few years ago as an economy measure to aid the city to meet the problem of decreased revenues resulting from the economic depression. As a result many of the downtown streets have been poorly lighted and the city at night has been generally dark and gloomy.

The city's annual bill for electricity, this including both white way lights and overhead street lights, is now $193,000. At the rate now being paid the restoration of the dark white way lights would increase the bill to $247,000, but the Georgia Power Company offers to reduce this figure to $225,000, making the increase only $32,000 instead of $54,000.

Probably no city in the country of Atlanta's size is as poorly lighted in its downtown section and along main arteries of traffic. This inadequate lighting has had the inevitable result of discouraging business during the late afternoon and at night and increasing crime.

Especially during the winter months, when darkness comes before thousands of workers leave their offices, the lack of proper street lighting has worked against business establishments of all kinds. Brilliantly lighted streets are an invitation to shoppers, while gloomy avenues of commerce carry no lure for the would-be shopper.

The restoration of the white way lights is urgently needed to give renewed safety to those who go from business to their homes after dark. Semi-dark streets are an invitation to pickpockets and petty thieves of all kinds, and the increase during the past year in crimes of this nature is largely attributable to the opportunity offered for escape under cover of darkness.

The same is true in the case of such major crimes as burglary and assault. Time and again during recent months burglars have entered stores in the heart of the business district looted safes and made good their escape, because white way lights in front of the buildings looted have been dark.

Business in Atlanta has led the country in its recovery from the depression and it is time that the shoppers of the city, and those who come to the city from a distance to do their buying, be given the protection of brightly lighted streets, and the business interests of the city have the benefit of the psychological effect on shoppers of cheery and inviting commercial areas.

Other cities throughout the country that, like Atlanta, were forced to dim some of their white ways, lighted them again months ago, and it is time for Atlanta to follow their example if the finances of the city government will permit.

A group of Iowa artists flatly refuse to paint any recruiting posters if we enter a war of aggression.

The idea was therefore quietly abandoned.

With 10,000,000, more or less, attached to the public treasures for rations, we have all the expense of a war without the dizziness.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

The clash between small patrols of the Russian and Manchukuo forces on the Siberian border carries little threat of a serious misunderstanding between Russia and Japan, self-elected protector of the new state of Manchukuo.

It has been clearly established that neither Russia nor Japan want trouble in Manchuria, but that both governments are willing to make broad concessions in their desire to avoid a controversy.

Such incidents as the one reported as occurring near Grodokovo, a small town on the Amur river, are not surprising in view of the inaccessibility of much of the territory marking the boundary between Manchukuo and Siberia and the habit of the Amur river, which is the boundary line, of changing its course.

The Amur, while one of Asia's broadest streams, is unusually shallow and winding and with every freshet there are material shifts in its course. The result is that areas occupied by both the Russians and the Japanese-directed Manchukuo troops frequently lies on the wrong side of the river after one of these changes.

Added to the natural friction caused by the necessity of changing the sites of troop encampments, there exists a centuries-old antagonism between Manchu and Siberian boatmen that is a constant source of friction.

It will take some incident more serious than the clashes resulting from these sources of friction to bring serious trouble in view of the apparent desire of both Japan and Russia to avoid a serious controversy. The recent sale of the Chinese Eastern railroad by the Soviets to the Japanese-sponsored government of Manchukuo, and the fact that Japan agreed to underwrite a price undoubtedly higher than the value of the road, attests to the desire of both governments to maintain friendly and co-operative relations in Manchukuo. Other similar developments of recent months are ample guarantee of continued peace in Manchukuo, at least for the immediate future.

ALLENBY GOES TO ETHIOPIA

British astuteness is again evidenced in the sending to Ethiopia of General Allenby, who captured Jerusalem from the Turks during the World War and who ranks in the esteem of the Arabic tribes of the Near East next to the famous Lawrence of Arabia.

Allenby has proven himself a shrewd diplomat as well as an outstanding military leader and his negotiations with the Ethiopians and their kindred peoples of the Near East is certain to increase the troubles of the Italian commanders in Africa.

Should England be drawn into the war the prospects are that Allenby will line up the fierce Arabic tribes for active support of the Ethiopians and their allies.

The Arabs are not only fierce fighters but, unlike the Ethiopians, have not stuck to old methods of making war. Many of the tribes are armed with the most modern instruments of war and are well skilled in their use. They are not only possessed of the finest horses in the world, but have ample motorized equipment.

Undoubtedly Allenby's chief task will be to unite the various tribes in order to secure combined opposition to the Italians, who are already in bad standing with the Arabs following the failure of Mussolini's intrigues several years ago to bring about a lessening of the friendship felt in the Far East for Great Britain.

Marriage

Customs.

Only one Abyssinian in every 10,000 is regularly married. But everybody above the age of 15 has a woman of his own. If a young man cannot manage to find himself a suitable mate, his father will buy him a slave girl, 10 or 12 years of age. Later in life, as the lad makes his way in the world, he may freely add to his stock of women, either by purchasing more slaves or by contracting for free unions.

The main object of marriage here is to bring children into the world. Owing to the high rate of infant mortality, polygamy is encouraged. Babambarra, a notorious prudish town, has a law that a man may have up to 100 wives. Everyone of them had given him more than two children. That would make close to 100 pickaninnies. Yet upon his death, only 20 children survived.

A man's first wife generally picks the second. If she sees a suitable bride, she buys the girl and brings her home. Her husband might bring her husband home a fine tie or a box of his favorite cigars.

When I expressed a mild astonishment upon hearing of these customs, especially in a so-called Christian country, my Ethiopian friend simply replied, "They were still told to bring the Bibles in the respect. 'Did not Leah and Rachel, the legitimate wives of Jacob, present their lord and master with a slave girl each? And were not the sons born out of these secondary unions fully the equals of the sons of Leah and Rachel?'

I could not deny this and did not feel equal to the task of arguing with him. The 19th century should have now surpassed the morals of Bedouin, who lived perhaps 4,000 years ago.

High

Divorce Rate.

In view of the great freedom in marriage, it is even more surprising to hear from missionaries that the great evils of Ethiopia, which are considered almost hereditary as theft, sorcery or black magic and . . .

It will take some incident more serious than the clashes resulting from these sources of friction to bring serious trouble in view of the apparent desire of both Japan and Russia to avoid a serious controversy. The recent sale of the Chinese Eastern railroad by the Soviets to the Japanese-sponsored government of Manchukuo, and the fact that Japan agreed to underwrite a price undoubtedly higher than the value of the road, attests to the desire of both governments to maintain friendly and co-operative relations in Manchukuo. ## Punishment.

Here in Addis Ababa I have seen ladies of 25 or 30 who have been five or six times through the criminal and civil courts of similar severity who have been married. Thus Addis Ababa beats the best Hollywood traditions. Of course behind this easy divorce system lies a lot of misery. Abyssinian women are most eager to marry a Catholic and count themselves more fortunate if their husband is a convert of the missionaries. I asked why this was told: "We the Catholics the marriage tie is indestructible, and a woman has her rights."

Two brothers may not marry two sisters. A man may not marry his brother's widow, which is contrary to Levitical law, you will observe, for an ancient Israel was the very opposite of what which prevailed: a man may marry his brother's widow. But he keeps the children, for if he doesn't there is the Dickens to pay. Three-quarters of all the jurisdictional disputes in Ethiopia derive from quarrels over the inheritance of property.

"To be an illegitimate child is no reason to inherit," is a basic maxim of Ethiopian law, which was established 100 years ago by an emperor who had a reputation of Solomonian wisdom. It was also he who said: "Do not be too quick in calling a child illegitimate. Most of us Ethiopians are illegitimate in the estimation of westerners."

BLAME

Propaganda specialists here believe that, of the two warring censorship regimes, the Ethiopian is by far the best. No one knows exactly who is responsible for it, but everyone seems to agree that it is not the Ethiopians.

Some are inclined to give credit to the British and French, but most blame an American. He is Haile Selassie's financial adviser, but he knows more than finance—a Mr. Everett A. Colson, native of Warren, Maine, now in his fifties. His background includes private banking in Ethiopia, World War service, several years in Haiti, a United States marshals at Canton, China, a civil service directorship in the Philippines.

TIPS

The advice which experts here give as to the relative merits of the front on both sides are sending the most authentic information available. They may be delayed by transmission difficulties and subjected to censorship, but should be trusted as against stories from any other sources. They will usually have the right story a day or two late.

Stories from Addis Ababa concerning happenings at the front should be subjected to microscopic inspection.

Yarns from Rome about developments at the front are hardly worth reading, as are also the stories written by European correspondents, published in London, Paris and relayed here. These are generally over-flavored with their own particular political absinthe.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

PRIVATE WAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—One reason so many conflicting stories are coming from the Ethiopian battlefield is that two slick propaganda systems there are waging a private war for world favor.

One day you hear from Addis Ababa that the Italians have bombed a defenseless hospital. The next day you learn from Italian headquarters there was no hospital in that particular town. One hour, thousands of Italians have been slaughtered in a battle; the next hour, it turns out they were to thousands of Ethiopians massacred instead; and perhaps next day you find the only casualty of the battle was when an Ethiopian dropped a lance on his toes while reaching for rations.

What enables the Italians and Ethiopians thus to accomplish more inside the headlines than on the battlefield is that they both control inside avenues of information from the wilderness world in which they are said to be fighting—they have the radio rights on their war exclusively sponsored for their own purposes.

BLUE PENCILS

The government here has learned officially that all dispatches from observers with the Italian army must be sent by runner to a central point behind the lines, where sits an Italian censor. This censor radios all dispatches to Rome and nowhere else. In the Eternal City, a second Italian censor gets another whack at the news before permitting it to be given to the world.

This does not mean that all, or even most, of the information from the Italian front is propaganda. It does mean that Mussolini's men decide what can go out and what goes into the waste basket. They have big blue pencils, and use them for insertions as well as omissions.

For instance, the cables from Rome recently were clicking off the hot and interesting item about one of Mussolini's sons or nephews dropping the first bomb of the war. Before the dispatch was completed, along came a hurried additional dispatch stating that, of course, the young fellow had been fired on first by the Ethiopians.

The insert was apparently the work of a censor who had an afternoon prompting him to correct the impression that one of Mussolini's sons started the war.

RUNNERS

The set-up on the Ethiopian side is more subtle, but just as effective. There are 68 foreign observers in Addis Ababa. The connection they have with the battlefield is a wire which runs halfway. The other half of the way is traversed by native runners, who have been known to pick up a few rumors off the trees as they walk along.

At least, persons centered in Addis Ababa have complained privately to Washington authorities that they might as well be in Siberia.

This situation would only be a delaying annoyance for such excellent observers as have been sent to the front lines, if it were not for one fact. The normal method of communications between Addis Ababa and the world outside is a radio station, controlled, more or less significantly, by the British, and operated by a Frenchman whose interests in life are reported not to include work.

On top of this peculiar inside set-up, the Ethiopians have imposed their own censorship, which already has caused foreign newsmen to protest their own right to be in Addis Ababa.

CAMEL EXPRESS

Authorities here were sent spinning when they received the first news that the Italians had started the war by advancing northward from Somaliland. The news came from a city which was at least four weeks away from the Somaliland border by the swiftest mercury of the desert—the camel.

A council of officials was called here to figure out what the news meant. It was agreed the border was indefinite, unmarked; that probably some Italians had moved from their side of the mountain over to the other side several weeks before that camel-haired zephyrs had just reached a communications line with the information.

BEAUTY STANDARDIZED, CIRCUS OFFICIALS FIND

National Types Have Vanished, Survey of Big Top Performers Reveals.

Time was when the European, South American and oriental performers imported for appearance under the vast big top of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined to create the Highland games circus grounds tomorrow, ran to type, that is, the women did in respect to their good looks.

Now, with more acts from abroad five times over than ever before, the foreign girls arrive in the states looking lovely and conforming to no national type rules at all.

The American beauties with the big show size up invading artistes most carefully, and it is leaving them somewhat confused. Look at the Walkmirs, novelty aerial features; Ida is a pretty blonde of the Spanish type, and her sister, Katherine, a beautiful blonde, is a girl from San Francisco, New York, Dallas or London. Then there are the Antakal girls from Germany. They might pass as American girls, and mighty pretty ones, anywhere. The same holds true for the blond lovelies of the Otari flying act, the French and Russian Land-Renards, and the athletic Kieffefenbach, bareback riding beauties.

Fact is, there is no longer any lineup of American girls on one side and foreign girls on the other side of the beauty line with the greatest show on earth. You can't tell them apart. There are scores upon scores of stunning lookers among the 800 performers, so they let it go at that.

WEEK IS DEVOTED TO "BETTER SLEEP"

Night's Rest Should Bring Full Relaxation, Sponsors Declare.

The forgotten idea with millions of sleep needs throughout the nation is a good night's sleep. People seem to take the sleep as a matter of habit and it is only natural they unconsciously ignore the fact their night's rest should bring them full relaxation and rest. So what is more appropriate than a Better Sleep Week?

"Weeks" for food products and "weeks" for toilet articles are common, but what this nation of high tension people needs is information and equipment for a better night's sleep.

To this end the week of October 15 to 22 has been set aside by leading dealers over the country to feature displays of better sleeping equipment.

Take a good look at yourself in the mirror this morning and if the reflection doesn't smile right back at you, hurry down to your favorite furniture dealer and ask him to show you the sleeping equipment that will give you "millionaire sleep" at prices you can afford to pay.

"Better Sleep Week" is one week that pays dividends regardless of whether the stock market rises or falls. And when the stock market pays dividends in health every day of the year. Many of us overlook the fact that we spend one-third of our lives in bed. Think of it—122 days out of every year devoted to sleep!

The week of October 15 to 22 is the perfect time to check out on sleeping equipment because it plays the most important part in deciding just how much health and beauty benefits you will obtain from each eight hours of the 24 spent in bed.

IN CLERKSHIP RACE

Jackson Announces Candidacy for Court Post.

A. Sidney Jackson, widely known resident of DeKalb county, yesterday announced his candidacy for the office of clerk of the DeKalb superior court to succeed the late "Uncle Ben" Burgess.

Jackson was born and has lived all his life in DeKalb county, where he has been in the grocery business in East Atlanta for 39 years. He is chairman of the board of trustees of the Martha Brown Memorial Methodist church and is a graduate of Young Harris College. He was formerly a city engineer.

"I feel that my training and experience will qualify me to hold the position of clerk," Jackson announced. He ran for the office several years ago against the late "Uncle Ben" and was defeated by about 1,000 votes. He is a member of an old DeKalb county family, his father and grandfather having resided there.

The office is now being held by Ben H. Burgess, nephew of Ben F. Burgess, who is also a candidate for the position.

CITY TAX COLLECTIONS NEARING ALL-TIME HIGH

Books Are Closed and Writing of Fi Fas. To Begin.
Cash Above 1934.

City tax collections yesterday were headed for an all-time high for this period of the year, it was indicated by R. A. McMurry, city tax collector.

Books closed and tax assessors announced they will begin writing fi fas, at once for those who failed to pay up and thus became delinquent. No extension of time is planned, but it was expected that there will be fewer fi fas. to write this year because more persons paid their 1935 taxes.

Cash collections yesterday totaled $150,000, and that does not include those who sent their taxes in by mail. On October 15 last year only $100,000 was collected. $100,000 was collected on October 16 last year. Cash receipts on October 14 this year were $108,000. October 14 last year fell on Sunday.

Up until October 1 collections thus far this year had exceeded those for the first nine months of last by $700,000, and it was said that the total paid in this October will exceed that collected on October 16 last year. Cash receipts on October 14 this year were $108,000. October 14 last year fell on Sunday.

City officials pointed out, however, that the additional collections do not mean that the city has more money than already has been allocated. Tax assessors said that the city will be a deficit of receipts over dedications of about $150,000 for the year.

The marked hike in collections, however, was regarded as an indication that there is more money in circulation, that times generally are better in Atlanta and that citizens are better able to meet their obligations to the local government.

HARRELL NAMED HEAD OF ATLANTA GYRO CLUB

Charles B. Harrell Jr. has been elected president of the Atlanta Gyro Club to succeed Howard C. Smith Jr., it was announced yesterday.

The election was held Monday night at the annual Founder's Day dinner at the Southern Driving Club. Other officers named were Roff Sims, vice president, and Nelson Scott, secretary and treasurer.

Dr. O. E. Collum is owner of the tract. Atlanta and Fulton county have expended a total of $164,000 on improvements since the city accepted the tract for a golf course in 1928. Atlanta already owns 21.11 acres, but the other 86 are necessary if the golf course is to be operated.

When Atlanta first attempted to purchase the tract, a deferred payment plan was involved and the city made a payment on an injunction to prevent acquisition of the property under the arrangement. The plan was attacked as illegal. It was pointed out that the proposed set-up would meet every legal obstacle.

A lease more, recommended by a former subcommittee of the finance committee, was deferred until the purchase plan can be tried.

NEW SCOTTSBORO QUIZ PLANNED IN FEW DAYS

Jackson County Jury Board Nearing Completion of New Rolls.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 15.—(P)—A new investigation of the "Scottsboro case" by a Jackson county grand jury in special session, Lieutenant Governor Thomas E. Knight Jr. said today will be asked within a "few days."

The lieutenant governor, who has been retained as special prosecutor in the case in which nine negroes are charged with attacking two white women, said the jury board in Jackson county was nearing completion of drafting new jury rolls.

Previous indictments under which all of the negroes have been tried at least once were quashed in the United States circuit court in session, aside two death sentences in the case on the grounds that negroes were "systematically excluded" from grand and trial juries in Jackson and Morgan counties.

The original indictments were returned on March 31, 1934, within a week after the alleged attacks took place aboard a Southern Railway freight train in Jackson county, and the negroes were arrested at Paint Rock.

After first trials here in which eight of the nine were convicted, and the nine gained a mistrial, the verdicts were set aside on appeal, and a change of venue was granted to Morgan county.

Lieutenant Governor Knight said if new indictments were obtained at Scottsboro, the cases would revert to Morgan county circuit court for trial under the original change of venue.

atle on Way to Philippines.

SEATTLE, Oct. 15.—(P)—Vice President John N. Garner, chatty on any subject, was pleased, arrived here today to join the United States delegation sailing tomorrow for Manila to attend the inauguration of the Philippine commonwealth government.

The white-haired Texan cheerfully admitted Mr. Garner's account of his was a "scraped" husband, a dodged political questions and confided he looked forward to impromptu sessions of gossip and draw poker on the boat.

A group of senators, congressmen, newspapermen and public officials will accompany Vice President and Mrs. Garner to the orient for the ceremonies November 15. Clark Howell Sr., editor of The Constitution, is in the party.

"I don't know," Garner drawled when he was asked what he would do during the long journey to Japan and the Philippines. "It's all arranged, but I don't know anything about it. We'll play a little draw poker on the boat, I suppose, and talk about each other."

SHIPPING LOCKOUT TIGHTENS ON GULF

Lake Charles Longshoremen Sign New Contracts on Labor.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(P)—The lockout of International Longshoremen's Association workers as an organization was tightened today along the gulf coast while the I. L. A. sharpened its weapons of recognition, strike, picketing and boycott.

There was no advance reported during the last two weeks to Pensacola, Fla., where the I. L. A. picketing was in progress. Local officers in the ports were preserving order, ships were being worked and the I. L. A. was counting on boycotts of vessels loaded by labor not subscribing to the I. L. A. demands.

The Lake Charles, La., Maritima Association announced today that they had signed new contracts with the locals of the Louisiana Longshoremen's Association, independent white and negro labor, to run until March 31, 1937.

Such contracts have been signed at Houston, New Orleans and other gulf ports were operating on contracts with independent unions as efforts were being made to break these contracts by the I. L. A.

Fiske Ordered to Rome.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(P)—Major Norman E. Fiske, on duty here for the last year with the 79th division, United States army reserves, has been ordered to Rome as assistant military attaché at the Italian capital. He was on special duty in Rome in 1929-30.

The Census Bureau brought up some figures today and decided folks marry younger in these United States than when grandfather was a youngster.

Being concerned only with cold statistics, the bureau declined to speculate on reasons. Nor did its figures take into account the recent deep depression years. Bureau experts commented, however, that the trend would be only temporarily affected by this period, if at all.

Contrary to the belief held by some that marriage ages have increased, the bureau produced figures to show a slight but definite downward trend in the last four decades.

In 1930, most men married at 24.1 years; most women at 21.8 years; 20 years earlier men were 25.7, women 22.1. Although comparable figures were not available, officials said the ages were higher in 1890.

LEADABLE SEQUENCE

When a suit is headed by three aces, the question is which card to lead. Simplified. You lead the top of any sequence except with an ace, for which the proper lead is the king.

The problem is far more complicated when you hold a suit headed by only two honors: King-queen, queen-jack, or jack-ten. Take an apparently innocuous suit: queen-jack-ten and suppose you are compelled to lead with this dreadful suit? Should you lead, against trump or no-trump bids, an honor or a low card? You undoubtedly will gain by leading the queen if the king is on your left and your partner is fortunate enough to hold the ace and ten. But in many other cases you will gain by leading the low card. The problem of which card to lead in such cases is enough to tax the ingenuity of a mathematician. It is, of course, impossible to try to remember the dozens of various combinations in which you should choose between top or bottom lead. Life is too short and personality too limited to remember anything. I must prefer to what's right but I can't decide what's right.

Friendly Counsel

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

My family and my husband were at odds when we were married and not long afterward my brother and my husband had a quarrel that resulted in my being separated from my family. Although we live only four miles apart I am not permitted to go to see my parents or have anything to do with them. Any mention of the subject through the newspaper has left home and I feel that it is tragic for me not to see anything of my old parents. The last three children don't even know their grandmother. While my husband's mother lived I was as good to her as if she were my mother. She is my mother as a member of the family. Yet my husband doesn't take this into account. I continue to go with him to see his family and never speak a word of criticism of them. My parents won't be here long and this trouble hasn't made their last days any happier. I have a son and a daughter and I should like to go with my children to see my family or continue as we are—strangers? I want to do what's right but I can't decide what's right.

TRROUBLED DAUGHTER.

ANSWER:

There's just one way to deal with a bully; it is to call his bluff. Strange to say, after his bluff is called he is as meek and mild as he was formerly mean and malicious. Your husband is a bully or he wouldn't undertake to separate you from your parents and leave your old parents to live and die without you and your children. He has you in a tough spot and because he hates his in-laws he is getting satisfaction out of punishing them through you. Hate, you know, doesn't run in a straight line from the hater to the hated, it runs at tangents and touches everybody and everything nearby.

You certainly owe a duty to your parents that your husband cannot wipe out with any edict, and you should give him fair warning that you intend to discharge that duty. Tell him calmly and quietly of your determination to go to see your father and mother and to take the children with you. Explain to him that you have always been considerate of his feelings toward his family and joined with him in making a home for his mother. Remind him that regardless of whose fault the break was, you have stood by him and shown your loyalty—but now your parents are getting old you are going to make their last days happy by visiting them, once not only every year but regularly.

False-Carding.

The play of an unnecessarily high card sometimes may deceive an opponent, for it is not natural to waste a high card when a lower card would do. In such cases the defending side should use this means of deception, which is called false-carding, automatically.

It is fine for a wife to defer to her husband's opinion about everything that concerns their common life—so long at least as his opinions do not violate the decencies of life. When you do then it is time for a wife to call a halt.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I have been going with two girls pretty regularly. I don't know which one I like the best. I took you into my confidence and told you both of my steady girl friends and that you have been considerate of his feelings toward his family and joined with him in making a home for his mother. Remind him that regardless of whose fault the break was, you have stood by him and shown your loyalty—but now your parents are getting old you are going to make their last days happy by visiting them, once not only every year but regularly.

ANSWER:

Instead of quitting all the girls because a couple of them get at you, a better plan is to look up some pleasant ones and show the pouters that they can't put it over you. The worst case of the pouts can be very simply cured. Baby girl or grown girl sticks out her lip to have it looked at; if nobody looks she draws it in and gets pleasant immediate.

The average man is afraid of his wife but there is no excuse for a young man's being afraid of his girls before they get their hooks in his heart. Love cuts down independence much like a swinging the independent creature in the world the most independent is the young man before he falls in love. He can flit about among the girls, sampling the whole lot, free to make his choice of a favorite and free to take his time in making it. He doesn't have to commit himself until he finds the right one and if he discovers that he has a rival or rivals, for their fair hand he can fight for first place in the adored one's affection until he wins her or sees her married to somebody else. Now isn't that a fine position to be in?

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I was forced to divorce my husband, who is a criminal, because I feared his bad example would ruin the lives of my two small sons. Now I am faced with the problem of their support and am eager to do my best for them. Everything calls for money. I am a college girl and qualified to teach but I have met with no success in my applications. Could it be that my divorce has made me unacceptable? I am frightened at this possibility.

W. D. M.

ANSWER:

Deafight precludes a provincial school board against a woman. But surely in the narrowest community there would be sympathy for a wife divorced because of her husband's criminal career; a wife left with two little boys whose future depended upon her ability to support them. Why don't you try the direct method? If you are unable to do this, then I suggest you go to a college girl friend and qualified to teach but I have met with no success in my applications. Could it be that my divorce has made me unacceptable? I am frightened at this possibility.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the proper opening lead against a contract of three diamonds from spades? I hold the king, queen, 9, club. N. 9, 8, 7, 2. No suit has been bid by any player.

Answer: The proper opening lead is the queen of spades. In this case the stronger suit is preferred to the weak suit. If the club suit were stronger (say Q 10 x x), it would be better to open the fourth highest club than the spade suit.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Madge Evans)

Take Care of Your Elbows If You Have the Wish To Be Beautiful

By MIGNON

After a summer of short sleeves throughout the entire day—or maybe no sleeves at all, it is quite necessary that in the fall and winter women should pay some attention to elbows. Women are not supposed to be forever leaning on their elbows, but if you watch them in a tea room you know the number of them do. Emily Post notwithstanding, the elbow troubles are these: the skin becomes darkened, sometimes it becomes thicker than the rest of the arm and very often elbows are unsightly from chapping when the cold weather starts.

There is nothing that takes less time than the care of the elbows, but it is just one of those that women very often do not bother to do. Lotions you can use in the daytime after the morning bath because they dry right away and do not stain the clothes, but I advise a good cream for night use. I would choose one that did not take much rubbing, for then I would be sure you would use it.

I would suggest that you use the same cream that you use on your elbows on your hands in order to keep them in good condition throughout the winter.

If you want to know where you can purchase any article mentioned in this column, phone Mignon at The Constitution. Please do not write me, as I am enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

PENSION FUND URGED FOR STATE TEACHERS

Jere Wells Favors Using Cigar, Cigaret Taxes for Retirement Pay.

THOMSON, Ga., Oct. 15.—(P)—A suggestion that state funds now going to pay Confederate veterans' pensions be used to create a teachers' retirement fund when the money is no longer needed for the pensions was advanced today by Superintendent Jere Wells, of Fulton county schools.

"We should not attempt at this time to provide a retirement fund out of current funds available for public education," Wells told the Tenth District Georgia Education Association conference.

"Public school teachers are so inadequately paid in this state it would be quite unfair to provide out of their money an extra pension fund for the retired teachers."

"The pension fund that is used by the state from year to year in paying the pensions of the Confederate soldiers and their widows is being reduced annually because these dear old people are rapidly passing."

"A retirement fund for our worn-out teachers should probably be created from revenue from cigar and cigarette taxes as the necessary amount for Confederate soldiers and widows diminishes."

Dr. Guy Wells, president of Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, another speaker on today's program, said "the real problem of education in Georgia is to insure the average citizen of the true state of education in this state." He stressed the need for equalization of educational opportunity, based on a minimum state-financed program of education.

State Program Discussed.

A state-financed program also was discussed by Dr. C. V. S. V. Sanford, of the University System of Georgia, who said there was an increasing demand for such a program in this state, under which the state would set up and pay for a specified school term, the local community to supplement such a term wherever possible.

Mrs. Margaret Solomon, principal of Form 1, public school, Atlanta, told the conference the "present-day teacher endeavors to meet the needs and interests and to develop the talents and abilities of each individual child" rather than striving for uniformity and standardization of curriculum. "The curriculum is made to fit the child rather than the child the curriculum," she said.

Kyle T. Alfriend, secretary of the Georgia Education Association; State Superintendent M. D. Collins; Superintendent J. E. Owen, of Morgan county, and Superintendent L. D. Haskew, of Monroe, were among other speakers today's program.

A similar meeting will be held at Clarkesville, Thursday, when Dr. Lacy Allen of Albany, state commander of the American Legion; Dr. Sanford, Superintendent Collins and Mrs. Charles D. Center, president of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers, will be among the speakers.

NEWBURY, Ga., Oct. 15.—The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Manchester will hold a food and auto show with tri-county fair exhibits at the fair grounds at Manchester next week.

John Neely, of Manchester, is in charge of the event which will include a carnival midway, exhibits from Meriwether, Talbot and Harris counties, and a food and auto show.

Miss Taylor, manager of the garage in front of which the fair was to be held, was also injured, receiving cuts about the face and hand.

Mrs. Davis, with her husband, was driving to Macon from Atlanta. Sheriff L. J. Mangham investigated the accident, and Mr. and Mrs. Davis continued on to Macon.

CHINA GETS PROTEST IN U.S. WOMAN'S DEATH

NANKING, China, Oct. 15.—(P)—The American embassy today requested the Chinese government to exert every effort to apprehend persons responsible for the death of Dr. Susan Waddell, a former resident of Berkeley, Calif., whom police said had been slain.

An autopsy today confirmed the belief of the woman, who was last seen alive riding in a ricksha at 6:30 last night, died of strangulation. Her bruised body was found in a ditch this morning.

AUBURN SETTLES TO HARD TASKS FOR WILDCATS

Meagher Says Tigers Overrated But Will Give Foe Tough Struggle.

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 15. (AP)—Faced with Kentucky's high-gear blue-clad Wildcats this weekend, the Plainsmen of Alabama Polytechnic are digging in to stop "Man-O'-War" Johnson and Bob Davis, his capable running mate.

"The result is we are faced with a tough game," said Coach Jack Meagher today, as he mapped plans for the workout, and added, "I hope every boy on the squad fully realizes his job."

"How about a defense to stop Johnson?" he was asked.

"That is a problem, putting up a defense for a player of that type," the Plainsmen coach said, "but there is no special defense, it just means every man will have to be in there every minute."

NO SET PLAN.

Coach Meagher said he wasn't planning "anything special" for the Kentucky game which brings Chet Wynne, former coach of the Plainsmen, back to Cramton Bowl in Montgomery where he won some of his most brilliant victories.

"The usual game," Coach Meagher said, adding "we are just a team on the make but after the fourth or fifth game, we'll be able to make it tough for any of them. We have been overrated in the early season, but the boys are getting fast. Next year should be our year."

The lineup for the Kentucky game probably will be the same as against Tennessee last week, Strange and Morris, ends; Paterson and Roton, tackles; Loflin and Mcroskey, guards; Gilpin, center; Stewart, quarterback; Hitchcock and Kilgore, fullbacks.

WEAK DEVELOPMENTS.

Developments during the week of course can alter the situation, as the whole squad is in good physical condition and improving from week to week. Coach Meagher may find the key to the problem of halting the Kentuckians' march in a new combination, but it appears doubtful.

Ralph Sivell, guard, injured in the Tulane game, is back with the squad, but may get another week of rest before taking over his chores next to W. A. Alexander.

The coaches are concentrating on the play of the ends and tackles to drive the Kentucky running attack in, and naturally are doing things to develop a faster breaking, more decisive offense.

And after two more weeks—if Coach Meagher knows his men, the orange and blue shirted squad is going to get tougher and tougher.

Pickle, Galatka Rated With Best By Coach Sasse

By Norman Walker,

Associated Press Staff Writer, STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 15. (AP)—Major Ralph Sasse, the former Army football coach who is turning in one of the greatest coaching jobs in the country, Mississippi State this fall, said today with a grin that his "medicine man show" is ready to take to the road.

"We're going to seem like a medicine man show with all the games we have to play away from home consecutively," the coach said. "We're representing the United States."

The team that defeated Alabama, last year's national football champions by the decisive 20-7 margin last Saturday, embarks on its tour of the country tomorrow to play Loyola in New Orleans Friday night, and Xavier in Cincinnati, Army at West Point and Louisiana State at Baton Rouge on consecutive weeks.

STATE'S RATES.

Sasse, who took over the head-coaching reins of a team that lost its first two important ball games on its home field last year, out of town, has brought State to a place where it is an important contender for the Southeastern conference title.

The only game the Maroons have so far is a grueling 14-9 tilt with Vanderbilt. By this time last year, against the same opponents, Mississippi State had lost three of four games.

The 'no system—just sound football—kick, a pass and a run in the proper mixture' which Sasse outlined in his plan at the start of the season is working.

State has a fast, hard-charging line, a backfield that whipped Alabama in the air and also ran the Rose Bowl champions ragged on terra firma. The backfield functions from three separate formations interchangingly, single and double wing, and punt formations.

Sasse's front line has an All-American in "Chuck" Galatka, end, and believes critics will agree with him when Galatka faces Xavier and Army, both of whom the former West Point mentor expects to defeat.

GALATKA'S GREAT.

One of the most outstanding minds that this boy is one of the most outstanding ends in the country," Sasse said today. "He's a great end all around, a great pass receiver, fast on getting down on punts and a naturally brilliant defensive player."

"Pike" Pickle, the speedy State halfback, is another who has had two touchdowns against the Crimson Tide, is rated by the major as one of the country's finest ball carriers. He and Armstrong, the other halfback, are both triple-threat.

"HELP" FOR PLAYERS. A gentleman wishes to know why so many football players need "help" to get through college.

The old mind immediately does a backward flip and recalls one of the late Knute Rockne's statements. It was at the time the Irish names were conspicuous by their absence from the Notre Dame lineup. There were lots of good Polish and Lithuanian names on there. Even German. But no Irish.

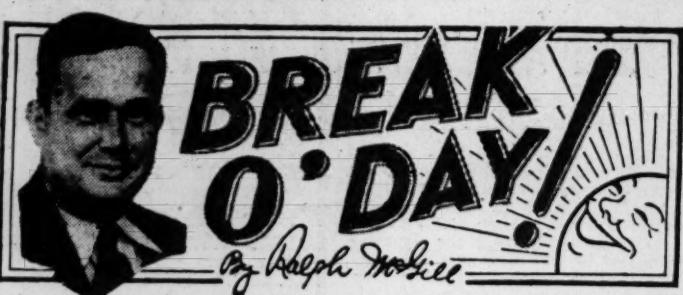

"Where are all the Irish boys?"

"Up in the stands wearing raccoon coats," snapped Rockne, quick as a flash.

He then went on to say that the boys who had money enough to pay their way, spend a nice allowance and own their own car, were not, with few exceptions, interested in football, which involved long, difficult hours of work and strict training.

And the scholarship supplies very little. It is no sinecure.

The football players who manage to stay in school with the aid of a scholarship do not boast numerous suits of clothes and a car. They live, with few exceptions, a Spartan life.

BREAK O'DAY!

By Ralph Sasse

Here's the latest on that sassy Sasse man whose Mississippi State Maroons defeated Alabama last week.

His Maroons go East to play West Point on November 2.

The major used to coach the Army team at the Point. And he would rather win from the Army once than twice from all others on his schedule.

Fact is, the major has been throwing in a lot of speeches about the Army game in between speeches about other games which were imminent on the schedule.

A few days ago, he got the boys together.

"Boys," he said, "I want to talk about that Army game. We are going up there and beat that team. And we are going to beat them well. And not because I used to coach up there. And not because I want to beat them so badly. Boys," he said, pounding a trunk, "we are going to repay those Yankees for what their fathers did with Sherman on the march to the sea."

Doggone it. The major is from Maryland. Marse Robert Lee sent his men over there once. He expected the Maryland people to rally around. But they didn't. They were most apathetic and seemed to have a distaste for the Confederate cause.

The major is from Maryland. Marse Robert Lee sent his men over there once. He expected the Maryland people to rally around. But they didn't. They were most apathetic and seemed to have a distaste for the Confederate cause.

And anyhow, Sherman marched through Georgia.

He didn't burn a single bale of Mississippi cotton. And as for repaying that, why Colonel Harry Mehre, over at Athens, has already beat the Yales five times and we've called it even.

But the greatest guys I know for making a Dixie speech to a football team are those old southern colonels, Dan McGugin, of Iowa; Harry Mehre, of Indiana, and Ralph Sasse, of Maryland. In his day and time Herman Jerome Stegeman, of Holland, Mich., could tear off a few bars of Dixie with the best of them.

A GREAT GUY, THE MAJOR.

Major Ralph Sasse is a great addition to southern coaching circles. And also considerably painful to those who have been scheduling Mississippi State teams for home-coming days and other special days when the home team wanted to be sure of victory.

The major has all the alumni of Mississippi State at fever heat. He has been aided somewhat by the AAA, which bolstered the price of cotton to 12 cents and kept it there. If cotton will hold up for a few more years we will be seeing Mississippi State in the Rose Bowl.

The Major will drop a few games this season but his first year already is a great success. He defeated Alabama.

The Mississippi boys were just country boys who didn't take time to think about it. They beat Howard two touchdowns. The next week Howard tied Alabama. So that left them two touchdowns better than Alabama. There was nothing else to it, so they went up and beat Alabama—by two touchdowns.

ROSE BOWL FEVER.

Violent epidemics of Rose Bowl fever, a very virulent disease, is making its appearance here and there on the football map.

The symptoms are a hoarseness of the throat, a dizziness in the head and a generally pop-eyed condition. It is at its worst in epidemic form at Chapel Hill and Durham, N. C., and at Lexington, Ky.

To date there is no evidence of the disease at Athens, Ga. And, according to Mr. Harry Mehre, there had better not be any.

But spectators at North Carolina's defeat of Tennessee went away with the fever. They have it at Durham, where Duke is located. And after Kentucky defeated Tech last Saturday the fever was prevalent in Lexington.

Very, very bad, the Rose Bowl fever.

NOT READY FOR ROYALTY.

It does not appear that the Flats is in any shape to receive the Dukes on Saturday.

I visited the Flats yesterday and watched them tape and repair the men who are injured. If this keeps up, Tech may go into the game with Duke on Saturday with an open space at one tackle, and a guard.

The trouble is, they are going to face a Duke team which is bearing down at top speed. Duke remembers coming to Atlanta in 1933. There was an invitation to the Rose Bowl in the pocket of the Duke graduate-manager. The only question was how much they would defeat Tech.

Tech won, 6 to 0. And the Rose Bowl bid was rescinded. The Dukes will be bearing down Saturday. Tech will drop this one. There simply isn't any manpower at the Flats to stand up under the pounding of the greatest team Duke has ever had.

The Tech players are facing the game with the Dukes in their usual manner. They will give all they have. And come back to do the same thing the next Saturday against North Carolina.

One thing Tech may look forward to. They won't meet anyone as tough, once they finish with these two. Not for a long time, anyhow.

"HELP" FOR PLAYERS.

GREEN IS READY, HARTMAN OPENS SATURDAY GAME

Wolfpack Ball Carriers Real Ground Gainers, Records Show.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 15.—Bill Hartman, sophomore fullback, is slated to start for Georgia against North Carolina State Saturday despite the fact that Maurice Green, hefty Texan, will in all probability, be ready for service.

Varsity reserves were on defense against a mixed team of "Red Devils" and freshmen in a still scrimmage offensively and defensively, with the varsity showing to advantage while carrying the ball and looking none too rugged while attempting to repulse the determined efforts of the Green Devils, running Blue Devil plays, to gain ground.

Lineups for the reserves follows:

Asst. Captain and Other Majors—Foster, Milton, Lake City (Fla.) tackle, was playing for the reserves after having been on the "Red Devil" squad since it was selected.

Tom Haygood, Atlanta, was showing up well in the defensive line. Pete Tinsley was performing well at guard, except for being off sides several times during the course of the afternoon. Carlisle Smith, former Boys' High player, got loose twice for long gains in the scrimmage.

Lineups for the reserves follows:

NAVIN REFUSES TO TELL PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR

Tiger Rookies Promising. Hard-Hitting Outfielder Might Help.

DETROIT, Oct. 15.—(AP)—It looks as if the Detroit Tigers believe the team that brought home the bacon this year will be good enough to keep it in 1939.

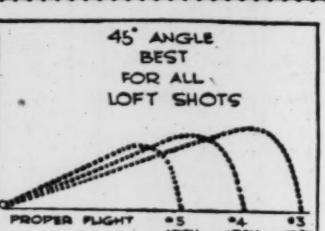

Frank J. Navin, club president, who won his $100,000 gamble that Mickey Cochrane would prove one of the game's greatest players, is in no way committing himself on the question of whether the Tigers will attempt a definite strengthening program next season. But from the way things look now, Detroit will start the 1939 campaign with practically the same club that won two American league pennants and a world's championship in two years.

"I can't tell a thing about it now," parried Navin when asked if he were ready to dig down deep for established players. "I might know something more after the December meeting, but right now I don't see any such players on the market. But I can tell you now that

It is possible he might get out his checkbook if a hard-hitting outfielder should appear on the ivory market, but those close to the Bengal front

Georgia Tech's Next Foe Rated Third in United States

EDITOR'S NOTE—Wallace Wade's Duke team, which comes to Tech Flats Saturday, is rated third in the nation, according to the Williamson rating system, which is based on a scientific estimate of teams played. Georgia has moved up, coming from well down the list to 13th place by virtue of the victory over Furman. Tennessee is rated 15th and Auburn 20th. Southern teams are well-up generally. Duke is third. L. S. U. is rated fourth and North Carolina fifth. The Williamson rating system is explained below. It has, for three seasons, produced unusual results. On this year's watch for the predictions for that week.

Recently a pupil complained about the similarity in flights of all his shots. I trained him to shoot with all clubs for an angle of approximately 45 degrees. This is the best angle for distance.

Of course, his very short mashie-nickel and niblick also climbed much higher. When I demonstrated that my own swing was most efficient and I got the best in direction and distance with Nos. 5, 4, 3 and 2 irons lofting the ball at this angle, the pupil seemed satisfied. But, like many players he had the idea that a low flight was needed for distance and a high flight only where the ball must be stopped quickly.

The accompanying illustrations show an approximation of the proper angle of loft for all clubs. You'll make your swing easier, more powerful and accurate when you get over trying to hit a low ball. There is most surely a thing as too much loft, but most errors are on the low side.

HUDSON MOTORS SEES RECORD YEAR IN 1936

Executive, Here for Meeting, Tells Plans for Strong Advertising Campaign.

Foreseeing 1936 as probably the second best year in the history of the automobile industry, the Hudson Motor Car Company has set its goal for the year a 10 per cent increase over 1935 business and will use its strongest advertising and sales campaign in several years to achieve this end.

This was made known yesterday by H. F. Byrne, assistant sales manager, who came here from Detroit to present his company's greatest advertising program to Hudson and Terraplane dealers and salesmen from this section of the country.

"There are two reasons why Hudson decided to use its strongest advertising and selling program in many years," Mr. Byrne stated. "The first is the very encouraging business outlook for 1936, and the other is the new group of automobiles which we are about to introduce. They are by far the most outstanding motor cars ever produced by our company and we have every reason to believe they will be the style leaders of 1936."

35 New Models.

Thirty-five new models, 14 Hudson eight-cylinder cars, seven Hudson six-cylinder cars and 14 Terraplane will be offered by this company this year and will be introduced in this section within the next few weeks, the company sales executive announced.

"Automobile sales in 1936 should closely approach, if not exceed, those of 1928, which was the second best year in the history of our industry," Mr. Byrne told the dealers and salesmen from the Georgia territory who assembled at 58 North Avenue, N. E., to hear their company's plans for the new automobile year. "To beat the mark made in 1928, he continued, it will be necessary for the industry to register more than 3,130,570 cars. All indications point to a 3,000,000-car year at least."

General business, Mr. Byrne believes, should reach normal, or close to normal during 1936. Expression of this opinion brought cheers from the assembled automobile men many of whom prior to the meeting asserted similar opinions concerning the Georgia market. Mr. Byrne traced the course of general business from 1928, using charts and figures prepared by statisticians at Detroit, to show the reasons for his optimistic conclusions.

Hudson and Terraplane 1936 Plans Revealed

H. F. Byrne, left, assistant general sales manager for the Hudson Motor Company, tells reasons why his company expects big year in 1936 to J. W. Goldsmith, local distributor, center, and H. F. Whitmore, district representative.

also pointed out how the motor car industry has been leading United States business back to recovery since July of 1934 and called attention to the marked increase in motor car sales during 1935, when the trend was well above that of general business.

"The major portion of Hudson's increased advertising appropriation will be spent for newspaper, or point of sale advertising," Mr. Byrne said. "This plan was followed in 1935 with excellent results," he explained.

A preview of the 1936 Hudson and Terraplane was a feature of yesterday's meeting of the dealers and salesmen and the Georgia sales representative, Mr. Byrne, who never care an ovation. Dates for public presentation of the cars, which are said to have created a sensation in motor car circles following their unveiling in Detroit at a recent distribution's convention, will be set within the next week, it was announced.

The meeting here was one of 68 being held in key cities of the United States this month.

Wedding Ceremony To Take Place In 'Borrowed' Church This Evening By Sally Forth.

WHEN SALLY SPALDING becomes the bride of Dr. Alfonso John Mooney Jr. this evening she will take her vows in a "borrowed" church. You see, the new home of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church with which the Spaldings have been affiliated for generations is under construction, so a wedding there was impossible. But Sally wanted a church wedding, so she called on Dr. J. W. Johnson, pastor of St. Mark church, and he very graciously and generously lent her his church for the ceremony.

Sally Forth rarely thinks of the Spalding family without recalling the wealth of sentiment that surrounds everything they do. In accordance with this tradition-fraught custom, this evening's bride will don for the ceremony the wedding dress of her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. E. L. Connally. Fashioned of time-yellowed bridal satin and rose-point lace, its quaint style of yesteryear is admirably suited to the slender beauty of the future Mrs. Spalding.

Tradition will again be introduced into the ceremony by the use of the marriage service which was composed by the bride-elect's paternal grandfather, the late Dr. Albert Theodore Spalding, especially for her maternal grandparents, the late Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Connally, when he was the officiating minister at their wedding which took place in 1847 at the Washington street home of the bride. This service was also used for the weddings of Sally's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Spalding, her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. H. Warner Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz, and for her three sisters, Mrs. Croom Partridge, Mrs. Albert Anderson Jr. and Mrs. Robert Bryan.

Dr. and Mrs. William S. Mitchell entertained the bridal personnel at a beautifully appointed buffet supper at their home on Jett road following the wedding rehearsal last evening. Dr. Mitchell, who is Dr. Mooney's closest friend and will serve as his best man, begged the privilege of giving the last party before the auspicious event.

MRS. HENRY DICKINSON, of Nashville, Tenn., arrives in Atlanta on November 2 to visit Mrs. Inman Gray at her Peachtree road residence. She will spend a portion of her time with Mrs. Robert L. Cooney at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in Druid Hills. Mrs. Dickinson is the former Miss Ida Thompson, of Nashville, and has hosts of friends here.

She will be numbered among the prominent spectators attending the Vanderbilt-Tech football game to be played here on November 2 in which her son, Joe Thompson Dickinson, is numbered among the star players on the Vanderbilt team. Mrs. Dickinson is a cousin of Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Cooney, and Anne Dickinson, her attractive debutante daughter, will accompany Eleanor Gray to Atlanta to make her bow to society at the Hallowell hall at the Piedmont Driving Club.

A RECENT motor trip took Sally Forth to Highlands, N. C., the mountain village made fashionable by so many prominent Atlantans who have built summer homes there. Sally stopped for a visit at Stepping Stones, the home of Mrs. Charles Sisson. A perfect riot of color greeted the eyes within the gardens surrounding Stepping Stones. Against a background of richly colored foliage there blooms at this season heliotrope-blue ageratum, red dahlias, royal blue monk's hood, golden-shaded asters and countless other flowers of various hues.

In the living room a log fire burned in the big stone fireplace, which is only one of Stepping Stones' many attractive features. It presented a true home atmosphere with Mrs. Sisson's purring black cat, Junior, and Sister, her devoted 14-year-old poodle, stretched out on either side of the hearth for their afternoon nap. Stepping Stones is literally filled with rare pieces of furniture collected by its owner from the North Carolina mountains. Among these is a heavy wooden cobbler's bench, used by the artistic Mrs. Sisson as a coffee table in her home. Mrs. Sisson's ingenuity is shown by the large old-fashioned wooden sugar

THE EIGHTH WOMAN Why She is Always Herself

All women are not born "free and equal." Nature being what it is, many readers of this newspaper know this to their sorrow. A woman's days are not all alike. There are difficult days when some women suffer severely.

There didn't used to be anything to do about it. Eight million had to suffer month after month. Today, a million have accepted the relief to be had from Midol.

As a rule, it is a knowing woman who keeps that little aluminum case tucked in her purse. One who knows what to wear, where to go, how to take care of herself, how to get the most out of life. That "eighth woman" who has learned to rely on Midol!

A smart woman doesn't try every pill or tablet somebody says is good for periodic pain. But Midol is recommended by specialists. It can form no habit because it is not a narcotic. But Midol is effective even when the pain has reached its height. It's effective for hours, so two tablets should see you comfortably through your worst day.

Student Aid Group Gives Breakfast Tomorrow Morning

The student aid committee of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs entertains at breakfast tomorrow morning at the Henry Grady hotel at 8 o'clock. The important event will assemble the district presidents and officers of Georgia federation in order to perfect the new year's program of student aid work as outlined by Mrs. Harold Wey. Her letters, carrying suggestions and program material, have been enthusiastically received by student aid friends throughout the state.

Particular interest has been shown in the new student aid award which will be presented at the convention in Augusta in the spring. This award is a handsome silver trophy generously offered by a friend of student aid to the district which meets in the fullest degree the requirements of merit as outlined by the program leaders of the student aid committee.

Decorations for the breakfast are in the skillful hands of Mrs. Willis Ragan and Mrs. Leslie Carnagy and will be suggestive of the colorful harvest season. Central baskets, surrounded by smaller ones, filled with bright autumn leaves and gold and purple gourds, will be the chief setting for this group of women assembled from every section of the state.

Mrs. Charles J. Haden, state chairman of the student aid committee, will preside at the breakfast and covers will be laid for 35 guests, including Mrs. H. B. Ritchie of Athens; Mrs. Robert H. Green of Atlanta; Mrs. J. B. Conner, of Bainbridge; Mrs. Ruth Turner, of Athens; Mrs. Morris Bryan, of Jefferson; Mrs. Ralph Butler, of Dallas; Mrs. Howard McCall, of Atlanta; Mrs. Bessie Shaw Stafford, Mrs. J. W. Ghosh, of Comer; Mrs. J. W. Orth, of Atlanta; Mrs. G. M. Barnes, of Midville; Mrs. C. E. Glausier, of Quitman; Mrs. Ivey Melton, of Dawson; Mrs. J. A. Corry, of Barnesville; Mrs. J. P. McGovern, of Avondale Estates; Mrs. Lewis I. Waxelbaum, of Macon; Mrs. W. A. Hill, of Calhoun; Mrs. C. A. Tyler, of Dalton; Mrs. J. O. Braselton, of Braselton; and Mrs. Roy Wallace, of Lula.

In the guest room, where Mrs. Sisson's favorite colors of orchid and green prevail, is a quaint old Dutch dressing table carried by a near-by mountaineer from maple wood. Mrs. Sisson instructed him to make the table as near like one she had seen in Holland when she recently visited that country. Another souvenir of her European trip is the pair of ship's lanterns that guard either side of the front porch at Stepping Stones.

FALL GARDEN NOTES by Fletcher Person Brown

The background and planting of our garden having been arranged, what shall we do with this open center? By all means leave it open. All the planning was for this. Here we make the lawn, the beautiful green carpet that ties the garden together. Do not skimp on preparation, for this important feature must be well done to be pleasing. With our long, hot summers we find it necessary to prepare our seed bed several inches deep. If you have poor drainage, try to contend with this by digging holes and filling them with good soil. Poor drainage causes moss to grow over our lawns instead of grass. We greatly desire.

But for those of us who have never yet succeeded in getting a satisfactory lawn, now is the time to make best efforts in this direction. We choose the fall because our newly seeded grass will not have such a crop of weeds to contend with at this time of the year. And when we have our fall rains, however, we usually have sufficient moisture to make artificial watering unnecessary. All winter the roots grow vigorously and by spring our grass is established.

You will be repaid many times over by putting a generous measure of peat-moss into your soil. Some of my readers will not be interested in soil preparation since their lawns are in good condition and their only need is to put some Italian rye over the existing lawn for winter grass. These are for will remedy this. Lime is sometimes good, but should never be applied often.

Lime causes many kinds of weeds to thrive.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

There would be time enough later to go into that. It was too late to alter the facts.

All that really mattered tonight was to save Vince from any untoward complications. It was her place now to shoulder any fresh difficulties arising from her association with Larry. It did not occur to her to wonder, or care, what his reaction to all this would be.

If he still wished to preserve his air of reticence about his doings, it was his own affair. But he was not going to drag Vince into any fresh difficulties.

Vince had had enough trouble of his own and, if he really was on the road to success, it was no time to interfere with his career.

All these reflections were still in a chaotic muddle when the cab came to a sudden standstill.

The driver reached back and opened the door.

Jacqueline alighted in some trepidation and looked about her. The roadhouse stood apart from other buildings. Fortunately, with brightly lit windows and an air of quiet respectability.

"Please, wait just a moment," Jacqueline said to her chauffeur.

"I am looking for a friend. If they are not here, I may wish to go back at once. I won't keep you waiting."

"Okay, ma'am."

Unpleasant visions of entering a bawdy house or something of that sort assailed Jacqueline as she walked quickly up the gravel path and stepped on the porch. Drawing a deep breath, she pushed the door open and peered in.

There were very few guests at the small tables with their red and white cloths. And there was Larry, only a short distance away. A half finished Stein of beer was in front of him. He was leaning back in his chair, with his feet propped up and a pencil stub in his mouth.

"So that Mr. Hicks would know something had happened to you."

"Perhaps. But nothing is going to happen to me. Now will you let me take my way home . . . put you into a cab?"

"No."

Jacqueline was thinking rapidly.

There was a clutch of fear at her heart . . . remembering that man she was thinking of.

She was uncomfortable aware that she was the object of curious regard on the part of the waiters and guests.

When Larry returned, he seated himself and asked, "May I order something for you?"

When the house looks dingy try ruffled white organdy curtains

By FLORENCE LE GANKE.

Dorothy had moved into an old upper hall had been painted green. Both the woodwork and walls were the same shade. And outside the house the shrubs had grown in great profusion so that everywhere Dorothy looked she saw green. She puzzled and puzzled as to what she could use for curtains. She wanted something that was not expensive, naturally, but she had little hope that could ever wash these same hangings in another house.

The dining room and breakfast room, which had been intended originally as a sort of conservatory had casement windows. For these Dorothy purchased white ruffled organdy curtains. She used a pattern that came with the ready-made curtains and looped the hangings up high. She happened to have some parchment-colored glazed chintz draperies with four-inch-wide pale green glazed chintz ruffles. These ruffles matched the walls. The hangings were allowed to hang straight, one hanging on either side of the set of casement windows.

The effect was really very refreshing. Immediately the sheer crisp white textile gave a light, transparent quality to the rooms. When the sun shone through it made a shimmer light that was really very nice. Dorothy had some of the shrubbery cut away so that she could get fresh air and light through the windows. The house, too, she knew that these inexpensive organdy curtains could be laundered easily and made slightly starched with borax in the rinse water.

But such an old house as they had, it was dark and gloomy in appearance. The outside needed paint. The inside of the whole house, downstairs walls and hall, stairway,

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(P)

Cotton staged a small advance at the start of trading today and managed to hold its ground, despite the fact that to finish from 2 to 3 points net higher.

As in previous sessions the feature was active trade buying of the light hedge offerings which are coming into the market.

The better tone at the start of trading was a reflection of improvement in cotton markets abroad, where prices had been firm.

Offerings of hedges against sales of act. 1 cotton are still in small proportion to the amount of cotton being sold over the belt, and the trade has absorbed them in recent weeks in a good manner.

The movement of new-crop cotton has been reaching a plateau and from now on is likely to taper off, but with the yield about two weeks late in some areas a steady flow of hedge offerings is expected to dominate the market for some time. Advices reaching the exchange today indicated that the crop is from 75 to 90 per cent gathered over large areas, with concentrations in the south, where picking will not extend far into November.

Reports from consuming centers indicated that sales of goods are holding up well with prices firm. The trade generally is looking for better consumption of American cotton this year, and where a few months ago practically every cotton statistic was favorable, there are now bright spots cropping out. American cotton abroad is foreign ports exports from American ports, the heavy daily spot sales and the splendid consumption report for September all point to a renaissance of the call for American cotton.

Port receipts 60,370; week 154,248; season 2,295,060; last season 1,721,642. Export 1,180; week 1,180; season 969,180; last season 890,452. Port stocks 2,251,786. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 92,758; last year 98,724. Spot sales at southern markets 56,732; last year 23,751.

U. S. CITIZEN—CLAIM

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(P)—A contention that Anna Sage—woman in red of the Dillingen case—became an American citizen by marriage was announced today by her attorneys as their new line of attack against deportation proceedings which would return her to Rumania.

Their counsel said they would argue that the federal authorities, notably Melvin H. Purvis, former chief of the bureau of investigation here, had promised to aid her to stave off deportation for the service she rendered in "spotting" John Dillinger.

Mrs. Sage's first husband, Michael Cicolai, was an American citizen and that under naturalization laws passed by Congress she gained the same status by marrying him.

They were prepared to renew their contention also that federal authorities, notably Melvin H. Purvis, former chief of the bureau of investigation here, had promised to aid her to stave off deportation for the service she rendered in "spotting" John Dillinger.

Port receipts 14,121, making 996,000 so far this season. Port receipts 60,370. United States port stocks, 2,275,263.
